Web Site Connects Troops To People Back Home

POSTED: 10:51 am PDT July 26, 2005
UPDATED: 12:40 pm PDT July 26, 2005

A new Web site started by a retired Army veteran is helping U.S. troops stay connected to people back home.

The Web site is providing support for troops, and all people need to take part is a computer and Internet connection.

Retired Army veteran Marty Horn started the Web site. It allows servicemen and women who are deployed overseas to post their addresses and list specific needs on the Internet. Then, anyone can search the database online, by name, location, or even wish list items and help a soldier in need.

AnySoldier.com provides people a relatively easy way to provide support to troops overseas.
